

TENNESSEE ONCOLOGY

Clinical Health Psychologist

Tennessee Oncology is one of the nation's largest, community-based cancer care specialists with clinics across Middle and East Tennessee. Established in 1976, Tennessee Oncology's mission is to provide access to high quality cancer care and clinical trials for all patients, at convenient locations within their community and close to their home. We provide multidisciplinary care to patients that includes expert medical care, palliative care, genetic counseling, integrative oncology services, and psychological support. We are seeking two full-time clinical psychologists, one to be based in the greater Nashville area and one to be based in Chattanooga.

Job Summary

Key responsibilities of our psycho-oncologists include:

- Outpatient counseling to clients and their family members, both in person and via telehealth
- Inpatient consultation for individuals receiving cancer treatment, including stem cell transplants
- Assessment of clients' psychological and cognitive functioning
- Collaboration with multidisciplinary team
- Participation in trainings both within the organization and in the community

Qualifications

- Doctoral degree from an APA accredited psychology training program and completion of an APA-accredited internship and/or fellowship, preferably in psycho-oncology or health psychology
- Experience as a psychologist working with individuals who have cancer is preferred
- Current license/license eligible as a psychologist in the state of Tennessee

Contact

Rachel Petkosh
615-390-9768
rpetkosh@tnonc.com