

Clinical Psychologist Experienced in Psycho-Oncology

Fox Chase Cancer Center, a member of the Temple Health System and an NCI-designated comprehensive cancer center, seeks a clinical psychologist experienced in psycho-oncology to join the Division of Psychiatry in the Department of Medicine. Our program, based in an academic setting, offers an opportunity to join a cohesive, diverse, experienced team of psychiatrists, nurse practitioners, and psychologists dedicated to the care of cancer patients and those with complex medical issues. Clinical responsibilities include providing adult outpatient psychotherapy for individuals, couples, families, and groups; Consultation and Liaison work on the medical/surgical inpatient units and ICU; and crisis management. The environment is intellectually challenging and rewarding due to the complex medical and psychosocial needs of patients, the collaborative nature of the work, opportunities for teaching, and plans for program growth in neuropsychiatry and integrative medicine. Weekend coverage included.

Compensation will be commensurate with the candidate's experience. Fox Chase Cancer Center is an equal opportunity employer.
