

Clinical Health Psychologist in Oncology Cleveland, OH

The Cleveland Clinic Taussig Cancer Institute is recruiting a full-time Clinical Health Psychologist to join our growing Psycho-Oncology program within the Department of Palliative and Supportive Care. In this role, providers will focus on the clinical care of patients with a wide range of cancer types and across the disease trajectory. Care delivery is supported by a large interdisciplinary team that includes psychiatry, social work, palliative medicine, medical and radiation oncology, PT/OT, nutrition, patient support services, and much more. Opportunities in education, research, and quality improvement are also available.

Candidates should have appropriate clinical experience and a passion for working with adults with medical illness. Applicants must have completed a doctoral degree from an APA- or CPA-accredited psychology program, an internship with experience in clinical health psychology, and a post-doctoral fellowship. Eligibility for licensure in Ohio is essential.

This dynamic position commands a competitive salary and comprehensive benefits package, including, but not limited to:

- Excellent medical, dental, and vision insurance
- Comprehensive disability and life insurance
- Medical malpractice and tail coverage
- Generous coverage for time away (vacation, sick time, holidays, CME)
- Highly competitive retirement plans with employer contribution
- Academic appointment available through the Cleveland Clinic Lerner College of Medicine

The Cleveland Clinic is a not-for-profit, multi-specialty academic medical center that integrates exemplary clinical care with research and education. The Taussig Cancer Institute is a part of the NCI-designated Case Comprehensive Cancer Center and has been rated among the best cancer institutes in the country by U.S. News & World Report.

From its natural treasures, such as Lake Erie and the Cuyahoga Valley National Park, to its many entertainment and cultural attractions, Cleveland is the place to be! Cleveland is home to three professional sports teams, the nation's second largest performing arts center, the world-renowned Cleveland Orchestra, the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, and so much more. With top-rated public and private schools and universities, affordable homes, a growing economy, and a melting pot of culture, Cleveland provides excellent resources to live and learn.
